Helping You Look Good

LET'S TALK ABOUT BEAUTY

A quote caught my attention last week as I was pouring through Garance Doré's book Love, Style, Life, "The danger is that if you make beauty the focus of your life, you attract people who do the same." Taken out of context, the quote can be interpreted many different ways, but for the sake of understanding her intent, she is speaking to physical beauty, the symmetry that few of us are born with, the genes that we can only possess as haphazardly as winning the lottery.

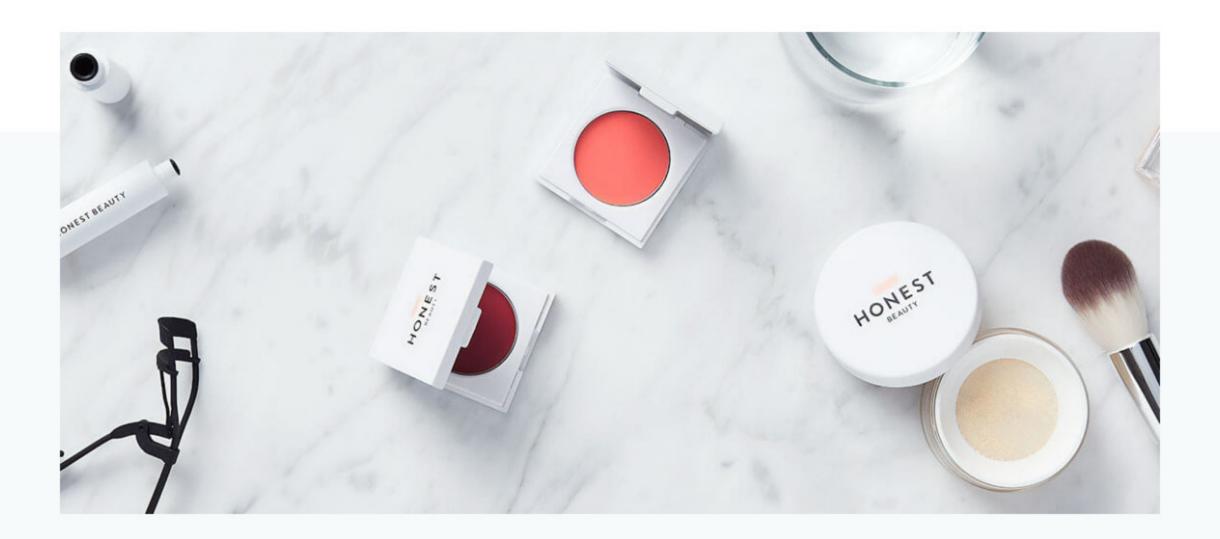

The construct of beauty, depending upon how and with whom we are raised can either serve as a builder or a deflater. Let me explain.
